

The Daily Courant.

Wednesday, December 23. 1702.

From the Paris Gazette, dated Dec. 9.

Vienna, November 15.

THE Resident of the Elector of Bavaria is gone from hence, according to the Orders that were given him. On the 10th the Imperial Avocatoria, which were publish'd a Month ago at Ratisbon, were publish'd in this City, by which all that are in the Troops of the Elector of Bavaria are order'd to quit his Service, on the Penalty of forfeiting their Estates, Honours and Dignities. The Count de la Tour Taxis only has yielded Obedience to these Orders. The Elector of Bavaria's Troops are dispos'd into Winter-Quarters in Swabia, where they have felt no Disturbance but from one Regiment of Hussars commanded by General Palfi; with whom, since the Attack of the small Town of Werting, they have had the following Skirmish: General Palfi was encamp'd with his Hussars 700 in number near Minzengen a little Town belonging to the Duke of Wirtemberg, on the North of the Danube, and 4 Leagues from Ehingen; from whence the Elector of Bavaria order'd Major Wolframbsdorf with a Detachment of Horse and Foot to go on the 29th Ult. after midnight, to fall upon those 700 Hussars. Major Wolframbsdorf surpriz'd them, and immediately put them to the Rout. Some fled into the Country, and others threw themselves into Minzengen and made fast the Gates; but the Bavarians broke into the Town notwithstanding the vigorous Resistance of the Hussars. On this occasion 30 Hussars were kill'd, 15 wounded, and 61 taken, with 110 Horses, several Mules, and great part of the Baggage and Servants of General Palfi, who 'tis likely would have been taken himself, had he not gone out of his Camp upon a Party three hours before the Action. At the same time a Bavarian Lieutenant of the Regiment of Tattembach was retaken, with several Soldiers, and some Horses, with no more loss than of two Soldiers kill'd and one wounded. All the Troops that remain in the Hereditary Countries, are order'd towards the Frontiers of Bohemia and Austria; and the Recruits for Italy are likewise sent in Waggon towards the Frontiers of Bavaria, where Arms will be given them, and where they are to remain till further Order. 'Tis said there will be 8000 Tolpatzes, or Hungarian Foot, sent to Prince Eugene.
